

Volunteer Photographer Guide

1. Take Great Photos

- Focus on the action. The important stuff is all the walking, hugging, dancing, and cheering! Pictures of people filling out paperwork, lifting boxes, and standing around get boring fast.
- It's about people. Skip the birds, food, and shirts - capture people, faces, and fun.
- Wooooo! Prompt people to cheer or say cheese - they'll look better, and thank you later.
- Change angles often. On the ground, on a hill, through a tree - be adventurous!
- Be bold. Get close! Don't just hang back and fill your camera with cluttered far-away photos.
- We like video too. If you have the ability to shoot video, do it!

2. Guidelines for Submission

- Quickly! Send asap so everyone can appreciate and share them! (Ideally, before Sept. 23.)
- High quality. Pleeaaaaaase don't shrink or recompress the files you send us - the more megapixels the better. We accept basically any format, including Camera Raw files.
- No watermarks or text. We're totally happy to give you credit - please specify your name and website and we'll post it up with your photos. No watermarks please!
- Filtered. If you have time to remove duplicate or blurry photos, we'd be extra grateful!

3. Send to photos@blueseafoundation.org

- The best way! Send lots of big files for free using WeTransfer.com - do this!
- Web folder: Send us your Dropbox, Google Drive, or OneDrive link. Can be glitchy.
- Gallery: A professional web gallery with a 'download all' button. (No Facebook galleries!)
- Snail mail: If all else fails, send your USB stick or SD card to the address at the bottom.

4. Don't Forget!

Your photos are really, really important - the event only lasts a few hours, but photos live on forever. If you have any questions, contact me at photos@blueseafoundation.org and we'll work it all out. Thanks so much - good luck!
